TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

NO LOSS TO LABOR THROUGH A DRY NATION.

Mr. Charles Stetzel, the well-known social worker, a machinist by trade, is an acknowledged authority on industrial conditions, especially as related to the liquor question. His investigations show the weakness of the liquor interests' claim that prohibition would work injury to labor. He says:

"If the same amount of capital that is now invested in the liquor industry were transferred to legitimate business enterprises, the number of workers employed, the sum of wages paid, and the amount of materials required would be increased fourfold. So that even though three-quarters of the total capital invested in the liquor business were destroyed the workingman, as such, would be just as prosperous."

"It must not be assumed, however, that were the liquor business abolished every dollar now invested in it would be lost, as the liquor men themselves now declare. Land values would remain the same, and most of the buildings and much of the machinery could be utilized for other kinds of industries without serious depreciation in value."

We are, however, concerned primarily with the great mass of workingmen who would be affected. Let us take five leading industries in the United States—namely, textiles and their finished products; iron and steel and their products; lumber and its manufactures; leather and its products, and paper and printing—and compare them with the liquor business (including the malting industry), with reference to the number of wage-earners employed, capital invested and wages paid:

"For every $1,000,000 invested in each of these industries the following number of wage-earners are employed: Liquor, 77; iron, 284; paper, 367; leather, 469; textiles, 578; lumber, 579. These figures prove that the iron industry employs nearly four times as many, paper and printing five times as many, leather six times as many, textiles seven and one-half times as many and lumber seven and one-half times as many workers for every $1,000,000 invested as does the liquor industry."

"What is the ratio of wages paid the workers to the amount of capital invested in this business as compared with each of the industries noted above? Here are the figures: Liquor, 5.6 per cent; iron, 17.8 per cent; paper, 21.8 per cent; leather 25.5 per cent; textiles, 23.9 per cent; lumber, 27.3 per cent. A quick glance at these figures shows how comparatively little the laboring man gets out of the liquor business."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
